7: In addition to a shift manager/supervisor the compassion center will have present at all times of operation a uniformed member of the R.I State Police hereby referred to as a compassion center officer to help ensure a safe sales environment, to verify the possession of each patient's or caregiver's registration card, to verify the amount and type of product purchased, and to initial and receive a copy of each sales slip so that the state may also keep an inventory record of all the products stored in the sales area and warehouse, if it so desires. No officer, employee, or volunteer may enter into the locked warehouse area without the presence of the compassion center officer who will verify the amounts and types of products moved into the warehouse or from the warehouse to the sales area. The compassion center shall have no authority over the compassion center officer nor will the compassion center officer have any authority over any members of the compassion center, but the two entities shall work in harmony to ensure both safety and accuracy of the operations at the compassion center. All products shall be in packaging which shall minimally include the amount, strain, and batch, if any, a statement that said product is for medical use only, and not for resale, and an indication of which conditions it works best for. When a qualifying patient or caregiver enters the compassion center he or she shall be greeted in a polite and courteous manner and treated as if he or she is the salesperson's mother, father, sister or brother. Patients will be given every opportunity to complain to the director or shift supervisor about rude treatment by the staff.

The sales staff will provide the qualifying patient/caregiver important information relative to which strain of marijuana is best for which type of medical condition and which type of ingestion option may be best for each condition. Staff members should know however that the patient may not want to divulge his/her medical condition. In any case all ingestion options shall be offered, with tips on the safest and most effective techniques for each situation. The compassion center will periodically offer free recipes for those wishing to cook or bake with marijuana. Cookbooks may also be offered for sale at a very reasonable price or free. Patients will also be informed of any known side effects, if any, preferably in a brochure provided by the R.I. Department of Health.

Patients will be given the opportunity, if they so choose, to participate in any research studies the R.I Dept. of Heath may want to set up.

When a qualifying patient/caregiver is ready to place an order, the sales clerk will first verify that the patient/caregiver has a valid registry identification card. The sales clerk will then fill out the sales slip(s) including the cardholder's number. The completed sales slip which shall consist of a minimum of four copies will then be handed over to another staff member who will fill the order after verifying the amounts and types with the sales clerk who took the order. When the staff member has filled the order, he or she will return it to the sales clerk, who shall then verify the sale with the compassion center officer, who shall initial the sales slip and keep one copy for inventory records to be kept by either the R.I State Police or the R.I Dept. of Health. Daily inventory records should be maintained by the compassion center and by the state, and a physical inventory of the contents of the sales area and warehouse, if any, should be taken about once a week. A separate record or list should be kept by numbers of the qualifying patients' cards to include dates and quantities purchased. In the case of caregivers the card number of the qualifying patient he or she is buying for should be used to ensure that no patient receives more than the legal limit for the allotted time to ensure that illegal re-distribution is not taking place.

The compassion center will also provide a delivery service when necessary with the delivery person being accompanied by a compassion center officer for all deliveries.

All volunteers and employees shall receive training in personal safety, crime prevention, security polices, and emergency situations including fire. In addition, each board member, employee, and volunteer shall receive training as required by section 5.1.9 of the Rules and Regulations Related to the Medical Marijuana Program.

The compassion center shall furnish each employee or volunteer with a description of his/her duties, responsibilities, authority, and access to certain areas or records.

The compassion center will maintain an alcohol free policy for all volunteers and employees. Illegal drug use will not be tolerated in any case. Termination will result at the discretion of the Director or the governing board.

Interest in profits.

10: Unknown at this time.

11: Initial steps towards I.R.S recognition as a tax-exempt organization have been taken but recognition by the I.R.S has not been completed at this time (it has been suggested by the I.R.S that we amend certain wording in our 'articles' section to ensure recognition).

As of 10/09/10 The Cassandrew Corporation has been on file with the state of Rhode Island and Providence Plantations Office of the Secretary of State as a non-profit corporation with the specific purpose or purposes for which the corporation was organized being: to strive for world peace, to help feed the world, to heal the people of the world, and to help educate people throughout the world, while fighting against injustice worldwide.

The Director of The Cassandrew Corporation, Michael J. Michael, has operated a small distributing business for roughly 10 years providing the finest quality goods, including tomatoes, potatoes, and pocket bread, one client being the University of Rhode Island in the late 1990's. References will be provided upon request.

The compassion center will strive to put forth the most up to date, highest quality, and most effective products possible while keeping in mind that every month improvements are being made with different strains of marijuana including, but not limited to, higher levels of THC, which we believe to be the essential factor in marijuana's effectiveness as a medicine. At least one of our cultivators has agreed to grow the marijuana organically so as to maintain the highest standard of health for our patients. Any patient demonstrating an inability to afford the cost of the marijuana will receive it at a reduced rate or free within limitations. The compassion center will provide a delivery system for shut-ins or other patients incapable of getting to the compassion center, i.e. nursing home patients, et.al.

B: The source of the equity is The Cassandrew Corporation in the amount of approximately $27,000. The relative availability of funds for capital and operating needs is about $40,000. The applicant's financial capability is approximately $80,000.

12: The Proposed location for the compassion center will be near the middle of the state, easily accessible by either rt. 95 to rt. 37 West to either Pontiac or Reservoir Avenue to Sockanosset Crossroads or rt. 295 to rt. 37 East to Reservoir or Pontiac Ave to Sockanosset Crossroads.

13: If the proposed compassion center is not allowed to start growing prior to notification then a reasonable start up time would be approximately thirteen weeks for plants started from seeds; approximately eight weeks for cloned plants or a shorter period of time if the compassion center is allowed to purchase marijuana from other existing caregivers. The basis for these estimates is from information obtained from experienced licensed growers. Although we have no actual experience growing marijuana, several experienced growers and consultants have offered their expertise to us; also, our proposed cultivators have extensive experience growing other plants and herbs. Our marijuana will undergo frequent lab testing to ensure medical quality, THC levels, purity, and consistency.

14: Michael J. Michael (Director) has run a successful small distributorship of the highest quality local products including tomatoes, garlic, pocket bread (Lebanese), and potatoes for approximately 10 yrs, including a bid awarded to him by the University of Rhode Island for pocket bread(Peterpockets) in the late 90's.

15: Only the patient's card number and not the patients name will be used on sales slips.

17: The compassion center will provide: counseling and educational materials relating to different methods of administration or ingestion of marijuana or marijuana products, and results of research studies on health effects, both positive and negative, of medical marijuana to registered qualifying patients and or their registered primary caregivers. These materials shall also include a listing of which types of marijuana are best suited for which afflictions, illnesses, or medical conditions.
